

The Bulb

An innovative and interactive environment dedicated to developing enterprising ideas and valuable employability skills.

'Initiative Taking' workshop at the Bulb March 2010

"The workshop was great, it was really good to be able to talk with other people rather than just listen to a lecture."

Bulb

The Bulb

Located on the Canterbury Campus, the Bulb is the University of Kent's dedicated student innovation space creating a dynamic multidisciplinary environment to motivate and exploit ideas.

For academics, the Bulb is

- a flexible space to develop innovative projects
- develop multidisciplinary activities
- an interactive workshop space for extra-curricular events and seminars

For students, the Bulb is

- a space to develop innovative and creative projects
- an opportunity to meet and network with like minded students from different disciplines
- an opportunity to develop and exploit employability and life skills

Digital Media Hub – A dedicated creative and interactive facility led by the School of Engineering and Digital Arts. Part of The Bulb, the facility enables Digital Arts staff and final year students to work on commercial projects with the view to secure employment for students within the digital industries
